

INTRODUCTION

Dear Readers and Authors,

I hereby present the next issue of the scientific quarterly Copernican Journal of Finance & Accounting, discussing the current and important problems of economy and finance.

Scientists from various academic centres have prepared the articles that make up this publication. In the current issue you can read an article about the effect of corporate social environmental disclosure on the market in Nigeria. One of the articles is devoted to the effects of macroprudential policy instruments and micro-prudential capital regulations on the procyclicality of loan-loss provisions. You will be able to find an article about the effectiveness of the government's propaganda in Poland in shaping the knowledge and attitudes of the interviewees. In the journal, an article relating to the important problem about the progress of the Polish economy's innovativeness in the years 2010-2016 against the backdrop of other EU member states is presented.

Considering both, the topicality of the subjects discussed in the articles, as well as the interesting research results of scientists, I hope that this publication will be appreciated.

As always, I would like to give special thanks to the Authors, Reviewers, Members of the Scientific Council and the Editorial Team for supporting the development of Copernican Journal of Finance & Accounting.

Yours sincerely,
Executive Editor,
